Spotlight on Medicine and Poison

• Very recently I viewed an excellent program on Spotlight, (CB-WT, Monday, October 8), showing the kitchen cupboard and where to keep things out of the reach of children. . . . I am a 4H member and think that this would make an excellent demonstration for the club.
—H.E., Dugald, Man.

Tom Lamb's Exploits

• I must tell you how I thoroughly enjoyed "Mr. Lamb From The Pas" on your program last Sunday, (Country Calendar, October 14, CBC-TV). My family were all watching with great interest to see the North . . . and it is most educational not just for us but students too. . . . It was really exciting and far better than those modern crime and corny pictures we are bombarded with.
—E.B.T., Lethbridge, Alta.

Not Everything to Everyone

• Your effort to be "all things to all people" is very disappointing to an ardent CBC fan. It's a very nice phrase but perhaps it is used just to convince yourselves. Surely most centres have private radio stations to provide the lighter touch and to provide programs with mass appeal. Certainly we have an abundance of such programming here in Calgary.

The morning programs for so many years have been such a joy — good music and news and talks . . . so I hope your programming will eventually be rearranged and let the private stations handle the "popular programs."—U.G., Calgary, Alta.

Law and Order

• I would like to register a strong protest to the CBC for showing on Quest a program called Protest (Sunday, November 4). It seems to me there could be no point in showing it except to encourage lawlessness and disorder. The police in our country and the States are not given the support needed to carry out their duties in maintaining law and order. Surely this program was in extremely poor taste.

—Mrs. R.S., Winnipeg, Man.

The Gambler

• I would be greatly obliged if you would take the time to inform me on the:

(1) Moral value of the Festival production of The Gambler (Monday, October 29, CBC-TV).

(2) Entertainment value of the aforesaid production.

—J.W.B., Saskatoon, Sask.

When THE GAMBLER was produced on Broadway in 1952, the year before the playwright's death, Ugo Betti was interviewed in Rome by a writer from the New York Herald Tribune. At that time he offered a moral interpretation of his play:

"Never have I been a pessimist, and I contend that mine is a sort of religious theatre. THE GAMBLER, for instance, has much of the profane in it, but one UNESCO delegate who saw it performed in Montevideo told me that in certain ways he found it highly sacramental, something that leads to religion.

"To me, modern man is like THE GAMBLER, in the sense that he does not really believe in love . . . he does not believe in religion. He would like to but he has too many disillusionments, so a crust of scepticism has formed . . . a crust which sooner or later must break. Because man cannot but believe in these things. All my plays have tended to demonstrate these needs in man, the need to believe in absolute values."

As for the entertainment value, the play received high critical praise when it appeared on Broadway and wherever it has been produced around the world. Ugo Betti is considered one of the highest ranking contemporary playwrights. The FESTIVAL production was produced by one of Canada's top TV producers, Harvey Hart, and performed by a talented cast. The plot is both unique and interesting, well thought out, well written and well adapted to the TV medium.

Kaplan and Kligman

• The Return of Hyman Kaplan on Trans-Canada Matinee was wonderful and I enjoyed every minute of it.
—E.H., Saskatoon, Sask.

Leave Bonanza Alone

• There are so many programs on TV not worth watching such as Beverly Hillbillies, Wrestling, and Sergeant Bilko, then why is it that every time a special program is shown, Bonanza is the show that must be moved?

This is about the most entertaining and popular show on TV. It was moved off several times last year for special shows and I see it's happening again this year. I certainly enjoy Danny Kaye, but given a choice, it's Bonanza every time.

—S.M., St. Boniface, Man.

The decision for this pre-emption lay with the originating network in the U.S.A. No doubt their decision was influenced by the need for a peak viewing time, due to the high production costs of the Danny Kaye special.

More Praise for Jamboree

• I want you to know what joy my husband I get out of watching Red River Jamboree. . . . Words can never tell or describe what a beautiful program it is . . . and the opening and closing numbers are so breath-taking. . . . We also enjoy watching Peggy Neville on every show.

—Mrs. M.C., Niagara Falls, N.Y.

PROUD PAPA Brian Flye of The Altones quartet will have the chance to show off his new daughter to the whole audience of Red River Jamboree, Saturday, November 24. Seven-week-old Tracy Flye will appear on-camera with Peggy Neville as Peggy sings Hush, Little Baby.

On Our Cover . . .

Garry Moore
and Durward Kirby

We don't know where the balloons came from, but chances are they are part of the zany "props" used on The Garry Moore Show, seen Mondays on CBC-TV. Starring the pictured gentlemen, it's an hour of music and comedy everyone enjoys.

Subscription Rates Increase January 1st

Economy measures now in effect within the CBC make it necessary for subscription rates for this edition of the CBC Times to be increased.

Effective January 1, 1963, rates will increase to $1.50 for six months, $3.00 for one year, $5.00 for two years and $7.00 for three years.

Subscriptions and renewals sold until December 31 will remain at the old, lower rates. For those wishing to take advantage of the saving, a convenient order form and envelope is enclosed in this issue.

CHILDREN'S ART inspired by the School Broadcasts program It's Fun to Draw, on CBC Radio, is on display now at the downtown branch of the Winnipeg Public Library, Portage and Kennedy.

Described as "colourful, creative, free and exciting" by Miss Gertrude McCance, supervisor of school broadcasts for the Manitoba department of education, the artwork was done by students in grades four to eight, in both rural and urban schools of Manitoba.

Other points in the province will have the same collection of art exhibited at their town and regional libraries. In December, the Henderson Regional Library, on the Henderson Highway, will have the collection, and in January, the Boissevain Library will display it.

Elaine Grand

ELAINE GRAND, a familiar face to CBC Television audiences before moving to England six years ago, has returned to Canada and now is seen as a regular panelist on the panel show Flashback, Sundays on CBC-TV. She replaces Donnal Wigmore, who remains on the program's staff as a research assistant.

Miss Grand was born and raised in Winnipeg, where she became a commercial artist—a career she continued to follow after moving to Toronto. She became a freelance interviewer on CBC-TV in 1953, and a year later became a permanent staff member, appearing on Close-Up, the women's series Living, and local Toronto programs. While living in England, she maintained her association with Close-Up, doing interviews filmed there for the weekly show.

FESTIVAL:

Sergeant Musgrave's DANCE

ONE OF THE most explosively vital playwrights to emerge in the contemporary English-speaking theatre recently is John Arden. Not only is he poetically imaginative and witty, drawing excruciatingly realistic portraits of both mundane and extraordinary characters, but he has a burning facility for making lyrical poetry out of what would, in less capable hands, be vernacular bilge. His use of dialect and colourful English phrases can awaken an audience to startlingly acute awareness of unexpected shadings in ordinary people and situations.

Like other new and controversial playwrights such as John Osborne and Arnold Wesker, Arden has been established by the English Stage Society, which airs its shows in the Royal Court Theatre in London. Arden isn't a financial success, and his reviews, while largely congratulatory, reveal that the critics are often perplexed by the fact that, while he doesn't beat about the bush in stating his case, his characters who defend it most impellingly are frequently less than admirable. Also confusing is his habit of mixing moods and forms in an off-beat way, and adding a dash of music or song when least expected. Arden demands that his audience concentrate—listen and feel more intensely than many of them are accustomed to doing in the theatre—but he rewards them with hard-hitting, emotionally shattering fare, laced with humour, which they will long remember.

"His concern for people is beyond the statutory 'What do they stand for?', and his sympathies lie with anybody who cares enough to live actively, who struggles for a personal approach to life," says a reviewer. "The real stuff of the plays is therefore the way in which the characters are built up and revealed, so as to illuminate the central theme, rather than themselves."

Probably Arden's most successful and best-known play is Sergeant Musgrave's Dance, first staged at the Royal Court Theatre three years ago and later presented on BBC-TV. English critic John Raymond regards it as "the finest piece of contemporary literature that has recently been offered in the English theatre." It jointly won the Encyclopaedia Britannica Prize and The Evening Standard Most Promising British Playwright Award in 1959.

Monday night, November 26, CBC-TV's Festival series presents a 90-minute adaptation by the author, with Douglas Rain in the title role, and production by Eric Till.

The play is set in the North of England in the 1880's. Sergeant Musgrave and three regular soldiers, all seasoned men, descend on a mining town, to all appearances hunting for recruits. But they are really deserters. Musgrave is feverishly determined to wake up his countrymen to the cruelty and futility of war. In a quiet, almost meandering way, the play moves along to a dramatic climax bristling with emotion and excitement that is theatre at its best.

The trio accompanying the commanding, sardonic Musgrave are Atterscliffe (played by Mervyn Blake), the embittered, melancholy senior member of the party who is well aware of his responsibility; Hurst (played by Ted Follows), a cynical, quick-tempered,

What Can We Learn from Vacuums?

SCIENCE REVIEW covers a wide spectrum of topics in its upcoming programs on CBC Radio

"I DO NOT KNOW what I may appear to the world, but to myself I seem to have been only a boy playing on the seashore and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me."

With those 300-year-old words of Sir Isaac Newton, Lister Sinclair introduces a discussion of some recent scientific discoveries in the field of vacuums. It will be heard on Tuesday night, November 27, at 10:30, in CBC Radio's Science Review series, of which Sinclair is host. With him in the studio will be three guests from the National Research Council: P. S. Redhead, Dr. J. P. Hobson, and Dr. E. V. Kornelsen. They will consider some of the unexpected properties of metals and lubricants being revealed to scientists for the first time through experiments in ultra-high vacuums.

They explain that a vacuum is not a substance in itself, but is an absence of everything else—any region in space in which the majority of gas molecules have been removed. Pressure in the vacuum in a radio tube is a million times lower than the atmosphere in the average room, and pressure in an ultra-high vacuum is a million times lower again than that. In such a high vacuum, so few molecules are left that most of the time there are none there at all. In a vacuum the size of a cubic foot there might be one molecule there every few hours.

How an ultra-high vacuum is produced is described on the program, as well as the strange ways metals and lubricants behave in them. Most normal lubricants will evaporate in an ultra high vacuum, leaving metals with clean surfaces which will then stick together tightly. When, last year, the U.S. sent up a satellite which was to scatter a large number of small metal needles into the atmosphere, it was found that they welded together in clumps when ejected, and the whole experiment was a failure. The Americans found that it was feasible to spend several millions on constructing space chambers on earth to simulate conditions existing in outer space, in which rockets and satellites might be tested, and in which spacemen might become familiar with the conditions they would have to contend with in outer space.

What do forest and sea have in common? Terrestrial animals move in two dimensions—back and forth. But in woodland and in the ocean a third dimension—up and down—is added. The three-dimensional nature of forest and marine biology is discussed in the December 4 broadcast of Science Review by Dr. G. Clifford Carl of the British Columbia Provincial Museum, and Dr. C. David Fowle of York University.

The great radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, England, may be known particularly for its activity in tracking satellites and for its space probes. But even more important is its constant search for radio waves from the depths of space. Recently the telescope reached what may easily be the ultimate in space—and time—seven billion light years away. In the December 11 program some of the activities and problems of radio astronomy are pointed out by Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank in conversation with Donald Crowdis of the Nova Scotia Museum of Science.

What is a poison? Nearly anything can be poisonous under the proper conditions. Examining the properties of poisons sheds considerable light on the physiology of plants and animals. Probably the most efficient insecticide would be an abrasive such as diamond dust, but it's a little expensive. December 18, Science Review offers a study of poisons and how they work, by Dr. Brian Hocking of the University of Alberta, Dr. A. E. Sellers of the University of Toronto, and Dr. P. R. Gorham of the National Research Council.

Napoleon's RETREAT

150 years ago this month, Napoleon's army fled from Moscow, defeated by the scorched-earth policy. CBC Wednesday Night recalls the great military disaster November 28 on radio

ON AND ON THEY STUMBLED through the desolate miles of deep snow, frantically hungry, diseased, weary beyond belief, their wake strewn with the bodies of their comrades who dropped out almost unnoticed, unlamented by the dazed columns pressing on behind a little, sallow, god on a horse. It was 150 years ago this month, and Napoleon Bonaparte was retreating from Moscow under the feeble glow of his waning star.

This great historical catastrophe will be brought to life on CBC Wednesday Night, November 28, at 9:00, in an hour-long documentary prepared by Lister Sinclair and produced by Esse W. Ljungh.

In 1810, two years before the Moscow incident, Napoleon's empire had been at its highest peak, stretching from the North Sea to Sicily, with the Emperor's brothers as kings in Holland, Naples and Westphalia. Napoleon's power was then greater than Charlemagne's and almost equal to Hitler's in 1941, but underneath the facade of greatness were weaknesses germinating, which flowered when he least expected them.

His people's affection for him was starting to dwindle, but he was still very much in command. General Augereau, one of his officers, summed up the Emperor's strange magnetism when he recalled an early meeting with him: "This little runt of a general frightened me. It is impossible to understand how he made me feel that he was the master the moment he looked at me."

The big threat to Napoleon's further glories was Britain. Ironically, it was only by chance that he hadn't been born a British subject in his native Corsica. The island had rebelled against its masters, the Genoese, and the rebel leader had asked Britain to come over to rule. Britain refused. The Genoese then sold the claim of rule in Corsica to the French, and a few months later Napoleon was born.

Napoleon had a hankering for the "gorgeous East" all his life—some historians say it is the key to his whole career. England would not give up Malta, key to the Mediterranean, highroad to the East.

But Napoleon realized he could never humble England by fighting battles. His only hope was to ruin her by preventing her trading with continental Europe. Russia, the only country which didn't fear him, balked at this idea. The Czar's subjects didn't want loss of trade, particularly the great landowners who depended on selling timber, hemp and grain to England. Finally Alexander I was pressured into opening his ports to British vessels, laid heavy taxes on French goods to show his independence, and joined a coalition with England, Sweden, Prussia, and eventually Austria.

Napoleon gathered his Grand Army around him—600,000 strong, but only half of them from Old France—and set out across Europe to punish Russia in what he thought would be one big, decisive battle.

But Russian tactics made this impossible, for the enemy kept falling back as he approached, devastating the land and endangering Napoleon's lines of communications. Still he pushed on, his army dwindling through desertions, disease, and the necessity for establishing garrisons as he went. When he drew a little closer to Moscow, the Russians decided to make a stand. Napoleon won the grisly battle that followed, and rushed on to Moscow. Soon the Grand Army saw the gilded domes of the city sparkling in the sunlight. Not a shot was fired at them. Puzzled and frightened, they approached closer. Not a Russian soldier was to be seen. The huge city was deathly still. As Napoleon's army marched in with the band playing The Victory Is Ours, the Russian army was hurrying out on the other side of the city. Startled faces of civilians appeared at windows, refusing to believe that Napoleon was really there.

The story is told that a clergyman's wife was sitting knitting a stocking when another woman rushed in with the news that the French were in the city. The wife called to her husband, who was writing in the next room: "Do you hear this? Napoleon is here!" Not pausing in his writing, her husband disgustedly replied: "Do not be stupid. Go and make the tea." But Napoleon was there, triumphantly established in the Kremlin.

Within an hour of arriving, his men made their presence felt, looting, raping, terrorizing the city. Shrieks of "Murder!" filled the streets. And shortly the civilians, (Please turn to page 31)

UNIVERSITY OF THE AIR:

How the Animal World is Suited for SURVIVAL

SEVEN LECTURES on Patterns of Living, on the ways creatures of the world have adapted themselves to their environment, will be presented on University of the Air, beginning Monday night, November 26, at 10:30. The speaker is to be Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan, professor and head of the Department of Zoology at the University of British Columbia.

Introducing the series, Dr. Cowan says: "Even a very superficial survey of the world and its creatures will reveal that every living thing is adapted to its environment in many ways. The living animals of the world today are the result of many millions of years of biological experiment; they are the survivors that, as a species, have produced ways of life that adapted them just a little bit better for present circumstances than other species that are extinct. This process of change we refer to as evolution, and we have abundant evidence that it is continuous, though variable, in rate and direction. No generation of a species is completely identical with the previous one.

"Inheritable changes take place in all aspects of animals—their form, their body chemistry, their function and behaviour. Certainly, being slightly better equipped for survival than your neighbour is no guarantee of your outliving him. Accidental death removes many that are superior in equipment; but, over the long period the species that produces the most successful innovations will find itself changing most rapidly and making use of the world's resources and opportunities most effectively. It will survive, diversify, and increase, whereas others will not. The environment is constantly changing and a successful species is therefore one which is able to meet the changes as they occur. Many kinds of animals, for example the dinosaur, were successful for 100 or 200 million years, only to reach a point at which they could not cope. Extinction was the consequence.

"The intricate adaptations of form and function that are to be seen in the living creatures of today have excited naturalists for generations and lead them today into ever more sophisticated researches in their quest for understanding the ways of life. In this series we will examine a few of the patterns of adaptation that have proved most exciting to me."

In the first broadcast Dr. Cowan considers Animal Flight. Later he discusses Migration, Animals in the Cold, Animal Life in Deserts, Parasites and Parasitism, The Mammals Return to the Sea, and Animal Invasion of the Deepest Sea.

The series will be produced by John Edwards of CBC Vancouver. Lewis Miller is the program organizer.

Dr. Cowan was born in Edinburgh. He received his B.A. from the University of British Columbia, and his Ph.D. from the University of California, where he also taught. He has been an assistant biologist and assistant director of the B.C. Provincial Museum, has won the Scott Memorial Scholarship and Carnegie and Nuffield Travelling Fellowships, is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, and a member of the Board of Governors of the Arctic Institute.

In 1959 he was a member of the delegation to Russia arranged by the National Research Council of Canada and the Soviet Academy of Sciences in the first formal exchange of scientists between the two countries. Two years ago he was made a Fellow of the California Academy of Sciences, is also a member of the National Research Council of Canada and the Fisheries Research Board. More than 80 of his writings have been published.

Program Notes

NOVEMBER 24

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

CBXT—Hi Teens

Teenage singing star Yvette Kramps and host Mike Winlaw present a show for Edmonton teenagers. Features include a weekly round-up of high school activities, Panel Please, a chance for outspoken opinion on teenage problems, and Career Highway.

World of Sport

Pacific Armada. This CBC Vancouver production concerns the many professional, amateur and would-be sailors who sail the waters off Canada's Pacific coast. The film also covers construction of a Thunderbird sailboat, a 36-ft. Tri-maran with three hulls, and an S-35, 35-ft. fibreglass sailboat.

Also shown are "frostbiters" who sail plastic dinghies during the winter season, a class taking instruction at the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, sailboat racing, and a look at HMCS

Oriole, a 110-ft. training vessel. Producer is Doug Gillingham, photography by Kelly Duncan and script by Doug Haskins.

Bugs Bunny

Prison to Prison. Posing as an eminent authority on the subject, Bugs shows "Why Crime is an Essential Ingredient of TV Entertainment."

Countrytime

A Loaf of Bread. How much wheat goes into a loaf of bread, milling process, cost to consumer in relation paid to the farmer for his wheat, the nutritive value and the use of different kinds of bread are all explained by Mary Smart, nutritionist with the Manitoba department of health.

Stan Westaway discusses indoor planters—their use and problems. He also talks about horticulture around the Swift Current area and on film speaks to Carl Carberry, horticulturist at the Swift Current Experimental Farm.

CBXT—Weekend Sports

Highlights of weekend sporting activities with CBC sportscaster Ernie Afaganis.

Beverly Hillbillies

Granny prepares a secret love potion which has an unexpected effect.

The Nurses

Lady Made of Stone. A pediatrics nurse guards her emotions while dealing with sick children, until an event at the hospital recalls a previous tragedy.

Red River Jamboree

Stu Phillips heads a cast in songs, stories and dances of the old Canadian west.

Boris Karloff, veteran actor of "horror" films, hosts a series of well-executed mysteries entitled Thriller. It is seen Saturday evenings on CBWT, Sunday evenings on CBXT.

Tracy Flye, seven-week-old daughter of Brian Flye of the Altones, appears on camera with Peggy Neville as Peggy sings the lullaby, Hush, Little Baby.

This week's theme: the "mail order" bride—a phenomenon of the Old West.

Wedding Bells	Stu
Hush Little Baby	Peggy
High Noon	Altones
Cattle Call	Valley Beaux and Belles

NHL Hockey

Danny Gallivan reports from Montreal Forum as the Montreal Canadiens play the Boston Bruins.

Juliette

Juliette's guest is organist-singer Jackie Davis.

Paul Soles' Colourful Career

CBC TELEVISION personality Paul Soles once ran a radio station in Germany which sometimes interfered with merchant shipping on the Rhine.

In 1956 Soles was manager-announcer-operator of station CFNZ, serving Canadian forces stationed near Zweibrücken, West Germany. Although its power output was only 10 watts, the station's signal could often reach Sweden, hundreds of miles away.

CFNZ operated at 1640 kcs., a frequency reserved for Rhine shipping. As far as Paul knows, his broadcasts didn't cause any shipwrecks or near-misses. However, the station was given another frequency, to the satisfaction of the Canadians, German transport officials, ship captains and wireless operators.

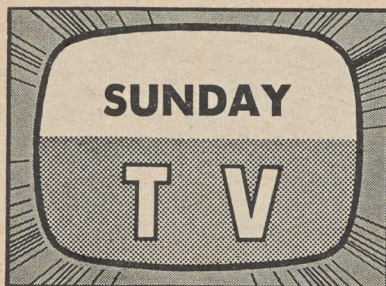

Soles is now seen from coast to coast on the CBC-TV Sunday evening panel show, Flashback, and as co-host (with Anna Cameron) of the Monday-through-Friday afternoon series, Take Thirty.

Born in Toronto in 1930, young Paul (Please turn to page 11)

NOVEMBER 25

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

CBXT—Expedition

Orinoco Quest. Scientists and explorers from Germany, Switzerland and Venezuela retrace the historic journey of the famous naturalist Alexander von Humboldt to Venezuela's Orinoco River. Host is Col. John D. Craig.

Heritage

Paul of Tarsus. A ten-part dramatized series telling the story of the acts of Christ's Apostles, especially of St. Paul, and the spread of Christianity from Jerusalem to Rome. Today:

Diana of the Ephesians. In spite of repeated rejection and persecution, Paul establishes many churches in Greece. He goes to Jerusalem for the Feast of Pentecost.

Country Calendar

Herringbone Milking. Doug Jubenville of Gilbert Plains, Man., explains this milking procedure, a system which is one of four in Manitoba.

NFL Football

Hal Kelly, CBC host, and Curly Morrison, CBC colour commentator, report the most important game available today in the NFL series.

St. Lawrence North

Soiree at St. Hilarion. Story of an old-fashioned soiree in a remote mountain village, with songs and stories that have come down through the centuries from France, the ancestral home of the villager.

Walt Disney

The Magnificent Rebel. Part II. On the eve of the first performance of his opera, Fidelio, Beethoven is informed by his doctor that he is going deaf. Despite this he insists on conducting the opera and the performance is a disaster. He leaves Vienna and when he meets a blind boy, loses his feeling of failure and futility and regains his will to compose.

Hazel

Starring Shirley Booth as Hazel, Don de Fore as George Baxter, Whitney Blake as Dorothy Baxter, and Bobby Buntrock as son Harold.

Flashback

A new panel quiz game, with Paul Soles as moderator.

PAUL SOLES' COLOURFUL CAREER

Soles used to string along behind his cousin, CBC announcer Bernard Cowan, to see radio broadcasts being done alive.

Keenly interested in radio, he appeared as guest student-panelist on the CBC radio series Juke Box Jury in 1946 and as announcer-contestant on Opportunity Knocks in 1947-48.

When he was 18, Soles went to University of Western Ontario where he began his radio career in earnest while studying English and psychology.

He worked nights and week-ends on stations CHLO, St. Thomas, and CFPL, London, and even took a year off from classes to go with CKEY, Toronto, in 1951. He became a regular on CFPL-TV in 1953.

His association with CFPL-TV lasted nearly 10 years, and except for his year off in Europe, he was a mainstay of the station, appearing on variety, panel and news shows as comic, MC, moderator and interviewer. He's also produced filmed documentaries.

A trim 151 lbs. on a 5' 9" frame, Soles has brown hair, hazel eyes and a ready smile. His genuine interest in people and his ability to put guests at ease is projected on Flashback and Take Thirty. An ardent hi-fi bug, he is also fond of canoeing. He's also a licensed pilot.

Program Notes

NOVEMBER 26

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

CBXT—I Love Lucy

Lucy pulls one faux pas after another with the result that she develops a devastating inferiority complex.

CBXT—Ladies First

Dr. Wint Duggan, ophthalmologist, talks with Jo Everett on recent developments in surgical treatment for the eyes and there is a panel discussion on music in schools.

Take Thirty

Hot Water. Anna Cameron and Paul Soles are joined by guest Larry Mann as Paul Kligman moderates his panel game.

Peter Ustinov. British actor and humourist, Peter Ustinov, is interviewed by Anna Cameron.

Scarlett Hill

Continuation of the story begun last week in which a man's life changes when he finds he has only six months to live.

CBWT—Ladies First

Kay Alsop and Bill Guest introduce Cedric Edson, secretary-manager of the Winnipeg Better Business Bureau. He tells of the BBB's work, and how housewives can avoid being bilked by "sharpsters."

Also, an Hungarian, Mrs. Agnes Schnur, comments on Canadian attitudes towards marriage. Don Robertson, producer.

Razzle Dazzle

Hosts Al Hamel, Michele Finney and Howard the Turtle salute station CHIH-TV, Lethbridge, Alta., and say hello to Bob Lang of the program Kid's Bids. Also included are The Terrible Ten, Telequiz and Kooky Commercial.

This Living World

Host Steve Bloomer talks about the bear and the raccoon, two animals that don't look much alike but have similarities, making them related in a way. He compares their paws, their eating habits and the way they walk, and looks briefly at some of the raccoon's relatives, the coati, the ring-tail and the kinkajou.

CBXT—Gateway

Co-hosts Jim Crossen and Jim Schrumm with the timely and the topical and the regular Monday feature—Bush Flying. Today, the story of the sinking of the schooner Speed II, and the ordeal of her captain, the late Vic Ingraham.

CBXT—Sports Page

A weekly half-hour devoted to coverage of all types of sports' activities of significant interest to the Edmonton community, with CBC sportscasters Glenn Bjarnason and Ernie Afaganis. This week, the second of a six-part series—Keen Ice, with Hec Gervais, Lionel Wood, Glen Gray and Matt Baldwin competing in point curling.

Don Messer's Jubilee

Music and song from Halifax with Don Messer and his Islanders, Marg

Osborne, Charlie Chamberlain, the Buchta Dancers and guests.

A few of the selections are:

Wee Cooper of Fife .....	Marg
My Bonnie Lassie .....	Charlie
My Love Is But A Lassie .....	Buchta Dancers
Money Musk .....	Islanders

Danny Thomas

When the elevator operator in the Williams' apartment block faces an important examination, everyone comes to his aid.

Garry Moore

Garry's guests include: singer Eydie Gorme; British musical star Roy Castle, and comedienne Peggy Cass.

Festival

Sergeant Musgrave's Dance, by John Arden. A sergeant and three soldiers descend on a 19th century town in the North of England, ostensibly seeking recruits. They are in fact deserters—and their leader is obsessed with a feverish mission.

Starring Douglas Rain with Mervyn Blake, Ted Follows, Mary Savidge, Jonathan White and Bernard Behrens. Produced by Eric Till.

On Departing For the B.E.G.

by
WITTMAN
CBC Winnipeg
Sportscaster

THE CBC PROGRAM schedule for this week on both radio and television provides for coverage of a wide variety of events. In addition to the regular NHL hockey telecast and NFL football telecast, viewers will be treated to a feature program on fitness and another on sailing, plus television film coverage and direct radio reports from Perth, Australia, the site of the 1962 British Empire Games.

The Games this year are of special interest to this writer as I will be covering the event for the CBC along with Vancouver sportscaster Ted Reynolds. This is the seventh edition of the Games, and some 31 countries and 1,200 athletes will be competing in nine sports on the program. The nine sports are track and field, lawn bowls, boxing, cycling, fencing, rowing, swimming, weight-lifting and wrestling.

Canada this year should come up with one of its better showings in Games competition. Canada has strong entrants in track, swimming and rowing. Harry Jerome, Bruce Kidd and Bill Crothers are the names to watch in the track events; Mary Stewart of Vancouver is the star of the swimming contingent; and the University of British Columbia crew will carry the banner in the rowing competition. See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

National School Telecasts

Portraits of Power. Four of the most influential leaders of the twentieth century are the topics for this series. Produced by the BBC. Host is Robert McKenzie, a Canadian who has been on the staff of the London School of Economics for many years. Today:

Gandhi. After 1919, Gandhi became the main leader of the Indian movement for political, economic and spiritual independence from Great Britain. Measured by his achievements, Gandhi was in many ways the most important leader of the 20th century. In marked contrast to that of Hitler, Gandhi's power rested on a solid moral and spiritual base. His lofty principles made him revered by the people of India as the Mahatma or Holy One and secured his power firmly upon the popular will.

Loretta Young

Hostess Loretta Young presents a different drama each day.

Take Thirty

Within Four Walls. Don Pelletier and Lorraine Thomson give advice on how to redecorate a room. Their guest is Mary Prudhomme from a wallpaper company.

Records for Children. Pat Patterson has Christmas in mind as she suggests records for children.

Scarlett Hill

The story of a man who turns down a nomination for mayor when he finds he has only six months to live. Continued from yesterday.

Ladies First

Mary Liz Bayer and Bill Guest host a show about suburbia, asking the questions: Is suburbia stifling?—How does it affect children?—Why do some people refuse to live there? L. E. Ostrander and George Rich of Winnipeg's Metropolitan Corporation supply city planning data, while Mrs. Edward Poyser and Mrs. W. A. Speers express their opinions. Don Robertson, producer.

Razzle Dazzle

Turtleshell Theatre presents an unusual version of Cinderella with Howard as the step-mother, Al Von Hambone as the two ugly sisters, Martha Muffin as the Fairy Godmother, George Feyer as the Prince and Michele Finney as Cinderella.

George draws a comic strip about Percy Q. Kidpeter and also seen are the Terrible Ten, Playalong, Nutty Newsreel and stories for the Daily.

CBXT—Children of the World

Hostess Betty Nickerson introduces a collection of paintings by the children of France.

CBXT—Pete and Gladys

Gladys takes part in a television show in which the contestants win prizes for the saddest story.

CBWT—Calling All Children

Children appearing on this show are recitationist Vicki Lehman; a jazz sextet consisting of Debbie Berzuk, Darlene Botan, Linda Jenner, Paul-ette Jenner, Marilyn Sedun and Ann Yauniskis; tap dancer Sharon Mac-Iboric; vocalist Susan Yee; vocal group, the Konrad Junior Singers; trumpeter Douglas Palmer; pianists Stephen Cera and Jeanette LaFleche;

On The Lively Arts, Tuesday, Kathleen Fenwick of the National Gallery conducts a tour of some of its art treasures for CBC-TV viewers.

and accordionist Gloria Wasiluk. Produced by Don Browne-Wilkinson.

CBXT—Our Man Higgins

A young boy expects a bicycle for his birthday and Higgins discovers that his parents have forgotten all about him.

Perry Mason

The Case of the Weary Watchdog. Della's socialite friend is accused of murder.

Front Page Challenge

Gordon Sinclair, Pierre Berton, Betty Kennedy and a guest panelist try to identify famous news headlines associated with guest challengers. Fred Davis is moderator.

Inquiry

Host Davidson Dunton presents an incisive program of interviews and reporting.

The Lively Arts

An exhibition of drawings from the National Gallery collection, featuring Kathleen Fenwick, curator of prints and drawings, and Anna Cameron. The drawings range from the 15th century to the present, by such artists as Raphael, Rubens, Rembrandt, Daumier, Lautrec, Picasso and a Canadian, F. Varley. (This program was originally scheduled for October 23).

CBWT—Our Man Higgins

Higgins is forced to endure a two-week vacation by a relative—a mischievous nephew.

NOVEMBER 28

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

CBXT—I Love Lucy

Lucy and Ethel scare the daylight out of a group of hotel patrons.

CBXT—Ladies First

Co-hosts are Ernie Poscente and Jo Everett. Today, a jeweller tells how to string and care for pearls. Jo Everett continues work on her millinery project—a mink fur hat, and Ross McBain returns with hints on home movies.

Manitoba Schools Telecast

Spelling. A series of five spelling telecasts for grade 6. The series attempts to let youngsters see some of the fascinating patterns which give shape and form to English words, and by interesting them in the spelling of words to lure them to a further study of words, their spelling, their meaning and their complex relationships. Today, Words Belong To Families.

Take Thirty

Young People Going Places. Fifteen-year-old Teddy Moore, daughter of Mavor Moore, talks about how she is following in her dramatist father's footsteps.

Official Sculptor. A picture story from Ottawa of Eleanor Milne, first woman to be appointed Canada's official sculptor, as she works on the carvings of the Parliament Buildings.

Glitter and Gold. Gertrude Crawley of the Toronto Gold Market Co. Ltd. talks about buying and selling gold bullion and describes the small but expanding world of the gold market. Also a look at part of the exhibition of gold ore, bars and jewellery to be held at the Royal Ontario Museum's new geology gallery.

Scarlett Hill

Conclusion of the story begun last Thursday in which a man has to face up to having only six more months to live.

CBWT—Ladies First

You Too Can Own an Original Painting. Kaye Rowe tells what to look for in buying art. Also, Gerdine Crawford shows how to sew a pinafore apron. Kay Alsop and Bill Guest are hostess and host. Don Robertson, producer.

CBXT—Calling All Children

Host Jim Mitchell introduces the following young performers: pianist Patricia Makowsky; ballerina Patricia DeBrouwere; violinist Norbert Boehm; pianist Brian Midbo; pianist Patricia Wankiewicz, and pianist Marsha Dolinsky.

CBWT—Children Of The World

Hostess Betty Nickerson introduces a collection of paintings done by the children of Russia. Producer, A. P. H. Scott.

Mr. Fix It

Handyman Peter Whittall and his helper, announcer Rex Loring, show how to make some toys for Christmas, and offer some plans for the projects.

Parade

Do Re Mi. A French musical film based on a composer's search for a new song for his musical comedy. As he sits at his piano, the composer day-dreams and gets inspiration. Appearing in his dreams are singer-actor Yves Montand and singer-comedian Robert Dhery.

British Empire Games

A report on the 1962 British Empire and Commonwealth Games at Perth, Australia.

CBWT—On The Scene

A visit to the Pace Cinema for the opening of their International Film Festival. Producer, Perry Rosemond.

SPORTS—DON WITTMAN

Daily radio reports will be carried each morning and will be repeated just before the supper hour. On television, the first of three films covering the highlights of the event will be shown Wednesday evening.

As we mentioned in the opening paragraph, two special features are being carried on the CBC television network on Saturday. The first, titled "Fitness Fortnight," is as the title implies, a program dealing with physical fitness.

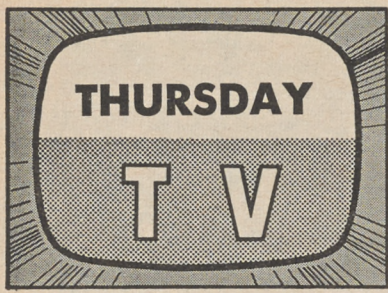

The second feature is "Pacific Armada." This is a CBC Vancouver production dealing with the many professional, amateur and would be sailors that sail the waters off Canada's Pacific Coast. The film also covers construction of a Thunderbird sailboat; a 36-foot Tri-maran with three hulls; and an S-35, 35-foot fiberglass sailboat. The program also shows "frostbiters" who sail plastic dinghies during the winter, a class taking instruction at the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, sailboat racing, and a look at the HMCS Oriole, a 110-foot training vessel. It should be an interesting feature.

Saturday the regular NHL telecast features the Montreal Canadiens and the Boston Bruins at the Forum in Montreal.

NFL football coverage on Sunday brings viewers the most interesting available game—whichever that proves to be on that date.

And rounding out this week's sports menu is the Saturday afternoon five-pin bowling show from Toronto.

Program Notes

NOVEMBER 29

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information

National Schools Telecasts

A series of five 30-minute programs, each one featuring an outstanding writer. Today:

E. J. Pratt. Often called "the poet of the sea," E. J. (Ned) Pratt has long enjoyed a wide reputation as one of the leading figures of Canadian literature. Part of the program consists of excerpts from a CBC film in which E. J. Pratt is interviewed by J. Frank Willis, well-known CBC broadcaster.

Take Thirty

Money's Worth. Jean Morrison reports on toys and games and whether they are what the consumer wants.

Cross Fire. Subject is The Standards of Professional Canadian Theatre Are Low. Protagonists are to be announced.

Toys on Parade. A fantasy film by Charles Eames in which the principal actors are toys. (This item was originally scheduled for November 21).

Scarlett Hill

Love at Half-Past 40. Beginning a new story in five parts about a 45-year-old widow who finds romance after many years.

FLIN FLON and THE PAS

CHANNEL 10 — CHANNEL 7
CBWBT and CBWBT-1

CBWT—Ladies First

Mary Liz Bayer and Bill Guest introduce features of interest to women. Don Robertson is producer.

Today, Marilyn Phillips takes a pre-holiday look at lounging clothes. Mat Gauer, cooking expert, prepares a dinner for six, with pork chops and a tricky potato soufflé.

Razzle Dazzle

Howard the Swami introduces Mighty Moose and his three Mooselets who demonstrate a new rope trick.

Mendel Meek reminisces about the day he was made invisible by mistake. Also: the Terrible Ten, Play-along, Nutty Newsreel, Comment, and stories for the Daily.

Adventure

On Safari—We Catch a Baby Elephant. More adventures with the travelling photographer team of Armand and Michaela Denis.

CBWT—Stop, Look and Listen

Charlemagne at last gets his chance to act and you can imagine what he does to the role of the wolf in the classic story of Little Red Riding Hood.

Hobbies 'N Handicrafts. Geoff Spurr goes on to another type of printing using a silk screen. He shows how to make very attractive greeting cards just in time for Christmas.

CBXT—Reach for the Top

Colin MacLean is host, as Edmonton high-school students compete in this panel quiz game for scholarship prizes. This week, the winners of flight one and flight two meet in a championship final.

CBWT—Reach For The Top

Winners from the previous programs compete in this quiz show that draws its contestants from Greater Winnipeg high schools. Jean Mackay, producer.

Thursday is a big day for specials on CBC-TV. Bob Hope stars with Jack Benny, Ethel Merman and Bobby Darin in the first one. Immediately afterwards, Jo Stafford, with Kenneth More and Roy Castle, are seen in another hour of variety entertainment.

Bob Hope

The second of six special programs by the fast - quipping comedian. Among Hope's guests are comedian Jack Benny, and singers Ethel Merman and Bobby Darin.

Playdate Presents

The Jo Stafford Show

Guest stars are British actor Kenneth More and song-and-dance man Roy Castle. The show's theme is travel and we see the famous vintage car, Genevieve, from the British film comedy of the same name, in which Kenneth More starred. Tunes include:

Breezin' Along With The Breeze
Lonesome Road
Chatanooga Choo-Choo

Again on PLAYDATE

Jo Stafford

BRITISH ACTOR Kenneth More and song-and-dance man Roy Castle are guest stars when Playdate presents The Jo Stafford Show, Thursday, Nov. 29, on CBC Television.

No section of the community travels more than the show world. From the earliest days of the strolling players and the circus, show folk have been on the move. Whereas in the old days, players moved only around their own countries, they now move around the world, flying from continent to continent with the nonchalance of an urban commuter. Aptly enough, therefore, Jo Stafford has chosen travel as the theme for this second show in her once-a-month variety series.

For Kenneth More, his appearance on the show represents a return to television after a long absence,

Scarlett Hill

Love at Half-Past 40. Continuation of the story begun yesterday in which a middle-aged widow finds romance.

CBWT—Ladies First

Anne Dowton shows how to make a "whimsy" — a diminutive piece of headwear that is gaining popularity. Also, Ruth Dyker returns with her weekly budget buys. Kay Alsop and Bill Guest are hostess and host. Produced by Don Robertson.

Friday Island

One Way to Move. A woman and two children living in a houseboat drift out to sea and are towed to Friday Island.

CBWT—Warren's Corner

Host Warren Davis introduces a BBC film for children entitled How Television Works. Producer, Jeffrey Anderson.

Tommy Ambrose

Tommy's guests on this show are comedians Phil Foster of the U.S., Rich Little of Ottawa, Hart Pomerantz and Pam Hyatt of Toronto.

CBWT—Biography

Mahatma Gandhi. Gandhi was a small, frail man but to the British rulers of India he was a dangerous and unpredictable revolutionary. For 350 million Indians he was the leader who brought them independence. He fought a revolution without guns and without violence. For a world too often caught up in hatred and distrust Gandhi symbolized a plea for tolerance and love.

Lovely June Whelan stars Fridays on CBXT's Somewhere There's Music, 30 minutes of sparkling musical entertainment.

JO STAFFORD

except for interviews in magazine-type programs. Internationally known for his performances in British films (Sink the Bismark, Reach for the Sky), More had his first big movie success in Genevieve, a comedy about antique car enthusiasts. The vintage car used in the film production will be featured on The Jo Stafford Show. More began his professional career as a singing comedian at London's famed Windmill Theatre. In this, his latest TV appearance, he sings and dances again for the first time in 25 years.

Roy Castle, seen on CBC-TV this season as a guest star on The Garry Moore Show, is a Yorkshire lad who gained overnight recognition in the 1958 Royal Variety Performance at London's Coliseum. Jo Stafford describes him as "a wonderful song-and-dance man, one of the greatest."

On the show, Miss Stafford and her guests combine their talents in tunes that highlight the travel theme—including Breezin' Along with the Breeze, Lonesome Road, and Chatanooga Choo-Choo.

The Jo Stafford Show has been described as "the most star-studded and spectacular series of programs ever to be made in England." Centred in London, the series of one-hour shows takes advantages of such historic British settings as Westminster Abbey and Warwick Castle. The star and hostess of the series, Miss Stafford is consistently a highly successful songstress. Hers is one of the most magic names in show business. She has been rated by the American Institute of Public Opinion as one of "the world's most admired women" and her voice is known on every continent. Appearing with her in the series is an impressive array of international talent, including Bob Hope, Ella Fitzgerald, Kenneth More, Peter Sellers, Rosemary Clooney, Peggy Lee, Mel Torme, Ed (Kookie) Byrnes, Robert Morley, Roy Castle, Claire Bloom, James Darren, Stanley Holloway and Peter Lawford.

Supporting the stars on each show are the Lionel Blair Dancers and the Polka Dots, a singing-and-instrumental team. Musical background is provided by Jack Parnell and his orchestra.

tough young fellow who overrates his own intelligence; and Sparky (Jonathan White), a young, malleable clown who is inclined to hide from himself behind an irritating screen of silly stories.

Citizens of the town are played by Mary Savidge as Mrs. Hitchcock, a large, immobile, widowed landlady; Bernard Behrens as Bludgeon; Henry Comor as the Mayor, a bustling, shrewd, deceptively jovial bully; Anne Butler as Annie, an emotionally confused girl who provokes the men; Gerard Parkes as Walsh, impatient and single-minded; Chris Wiggins as the Constable, a noisy, inept thug; John Maddison as the good-humoured Slow Collier; Rex Sevenoaks as the aristocratic Parson; and Jay Shannon as the Pugnacious Collier.

In his TV adaptation, Arden has made several changes in the play to "make it more real," one being the addition of montage sequences. Another is a sequence in the first act which makes the soldiers' reason for moving in on that particular town more understandable.

Discussing the play, producer Eric Till said: "The Sergeant, in his fanatical desire to end killing, uses faulty methods—by trying to stop violence with more violence. It doesn't work. Musgrave's motives are good, but the audience loses sympathy with him when his method becomes clear."

John Arden describes the play as "an un-historical parable." He says: "This is not a nihilistic play. This is not (except perhaps unconsciously) a symbolist play. Nor does it advocate bloody revolution. I have endeavoured to write about the violence that is so evident in the world, and to do so through a story that is partly one of wish-fulfilment. I think that many of us must at some time have felt an overpowering urge to match some particularly outrageous piece of violence with an even greater and more outrageous retaliation. Musgrave tries to do this: and the fact that the sympathies of the play are clearly with him in his original horror, and then turn against him and his intended remedy, seems to have bewildered many people. Complete pacifism is a very hard doctrine; and if this play appears to advocate it with perhaps some timidity, it is probably because I am naturally a timid man—and also because I know that if I am hit I very easily hit back; and I do not care to preach too confidently what I am not sure I can practice."

Arden was originally an architect. He broke into playwrighting with a radio drama, The Life of Man, which won first prize in a BBC drama competition in 1956. The publicity this brought him caught the attention of Oscar Lewenstein, who introduced Arden to the Royal Court Theatre, where Arden's stage plays have been produced: The Wasters of Babylon, Live Like Pigs, Sergeant Musgrave's Dance, and this past summer, The Workhouse Donkey, which Arden describes as "a vulgar melodrama."

who had no arms with which to defend themselves, decided to burn their gracious old buildings, to sacrifice their holy city to save themselves. Moscow was a giant inferno for almost a week, the gutters running with molten metals, and personal treasures, artistic masterpieces and valuable Grand Army provisions for men and horses gobbled by flame.

The Grand Army worked frantically to put out the fires. Finally the great arsenal exploded with a tremendous roar, splitting the palace walls. Napoleon was still confident that the Czar would ask for a peace treaty, and lingered on with his men in the smoking embers for five weeks. When no overtures came he realized he had made a gross blunder. Although the bitter Russian winter was drawing in, he had no choice but to retreat immediately. Waiting until spring would make his going home easier, but what would happen to his empire in his absence?

The retreat was disastrous. Of the more than 600,000 men who had marched heroically behind him into Russia, only 95,000 limped back to their homes. "If I had succeeded," Napoleon said bitterly afterwards, "I would have become the greatest man the world has known."

He had thought he could retreat by a route on which he might acquire some highly necessary provisions. But the Russians blocked it, so he was forced to return by the road he had cleared of food and equipment on his way in, and his doom was sealed.

Sometimes harried by Cossacks and peasants, but mostly marching in icy loneliness, his Grand Army moved slowly over the snowdrifts on the boundless plains. Their loot had been dropped enroute, their horses were devoured.

Some of the soldiers still believed in their leader, and he still had faith in his genius, his star. He dreamed of reconquering all he had lost. Poet Walter de la Mare caught the mood of the long trek and the man who led it when he put these words into Napoleon's mouth: "What is the world, O soldiers? It is I: I, the incessant snow, this northern sky; soldiers, this solitude through which we go, it is I."

The worst was still to come. The Russian Czar led the Russian army into Germany. Back on home soil, Napoleon desperately called on France for more men and money. Rather than do military service, some men cut off their thumbs or pulled out their teeth. But enough of Napoleon's glory remained for him to recruit half a million men. Courageous as they were, their youth and inexperience were no match for the enemy. Neither was Napoleon his former quick self. The 44-year-old Emperor had grown stout and sleepy. He was as determined as ever, but could not face up to reality as before. He was adamant. His enemies pressed in on all sides, and finally his star faded out entirely at Waterloo. Banished from Europe as a disturber of public peace, the little Emperor was isolated with his memories on St. Helena, still undefeated in spirit, still trying to justify his acts.

LATE CONCERT

The third LISTENING BOOTH review of DGG records features a full-hour of DER FREISCHUTZ by Carl Maria von Weber, the first composer of opera to set himself the task of fusing poetry, song and action into a single art form. Its fulfillment was realized in Richard Wagner's opera TRISTAN AND ISOLDE.

In view of the fact that TRISTAN was germinal in the evolution of Arnold Schoenberg's serial tone-row composition, listeners may be interested in listening to Weber's opera from a philosophic perspective once stated by John Stuart Mill (1806-1873):

"I was seriously tormented by the thought of the exhaustibility of musical combinations. The octave consists only of five tones and two semitones, which can be put together in only a limited number of ways of which but a small proportion are beautiful; most of these, it seems to

Happy Land

"The days in Canada were the happiest of my life. The country was the most beautiful I had ever seen. The fruit orchards in flower, the Thousand Islands basking in the summer sunshine, the fiery red of the maple in the Gatineau Hills and the breathless serenity of the Rockies still haunt my troubled midnight and my noon's repose. The Canadians were the friendliest people I had ever met: not as closed-in as the English, not as aggressively forward as the American. And what was most important for a coloured man sensitive to racial slights, without any trace of colour prejudice whatsoever."—Khushwant Singh, Sikh historian and novelist, giving an Indian view in the BBC General Overseas Service series 'Outlook'.

Dr. Geoffrey Waddington conducts Wednesday as the CBC Symphony, with the Canadian String Quartet, perform two concertos for string quartet and orchestra.

COOK'S TOUR

with Mat Gauer

RECIPES FEATURED ON
"LADIES FIRST" EACH THURSDAY
ON CBWT AND CBXT

SMOTHERED BEEF

2 lbs. Round Steak—1" thick
3 tablespoons flour
Salt
Pepper
Paprika
Garlic Powder
Can of mushroom soup OR
2 large onions

Lay steak on board and pound in mixture of flour, salt, pepper, paprika and garlic powder. Cut into serving size pieces and brown in heavy pan with two to three tablespoons of oil. Brown both sides well, then place in a small roaster. To the fat in the pan add one tin of mushroom soup diluted with one-half tin of water. Put into roaster with meat and bake in 350 degree oven for 90 minutes.

For onion gravy (as alternate sauce): Sauté onions in fat in pan (after placing meat in roaster) then add one and one-half cups consommé. Add to meat, bake at 350 degrees for 90 minutes. Then remove meat and thicken sauce with mixture of one tablespoon flour creamed with one tablespoon butter.

CARROTS VICHY

Peel and slice carrots in coin shapes. Barely cover with water, add one teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon sugar and two tablespoons butter. Cook on medium heat until barely tender and all the water has been cooked away. Put in serving dish and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

New Farm TV Program For Regina-Saskatoon Viewers

A NEW TELEVISION farm program, Rural Route Saskatchewan, arranged by CKCK-TV Regina and CFQC-TV, Saskatoon in co-operation with the Saskatchewan department of agriculture, is now being telecast to rural viewers in the Regina-Saskatoon areas. The half-hour program, presented by the stations on a sustaining basis, can be seen at 4:00 p.m. each Sunday.

The University of Saskatchewan and the Canada department of agriculture will also make contributions to the program series. Programs will originate at both the Regina and Saskatoon television studios and will be video-taped in advance of showing.

The programs will help bring useful information to farmers. Information from agricultural representatives, subject matter specialists, agricultural scientists and farmers will be featured.

A wide variety of topics will be used on programs including information on farm production, economics and rural living.

The producers are Gil Garduner, CKCK television and Greg Barnsley, CFQC television, Saskatoon. Ray Youngmen and Verne Prior will be hosts on programs which originate at Regina. Greg Barnsley, producer at CFQC-TV will be host on the program at Saskatoon.

John McConnell, supervisor, information division and Jack Art, extension specialist, Saskatchewan department of agriculture will organize and co-ordinate material, write programs and assist the television stations.

Feature topics to be televised soon include the latest developments in chemical control of cattle warbles and lice, factors in selecting feeder cattle, new alfalfa varieties, the changing role of the agricultural representative during the past 30 years and a veterinarian's views on anthrax.
